Dan Evans is the Director of IT for Maschoff Brennan and is responsible for aligning the firm's technology initiatives with the firm's strategic direction. He oversees all aspects of Maschoff Brennan's technology including, hardware and application support, infrastructure design and implementation, user and client support services, technology education, data security and awareness, business continuity and disaster recovery for its Park City, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and Orange County offices. In addition, Dan works with attorneys to identify and capitalize on opportunities to leverage technology to add efficiency, productivity, and value to client services.

Over the past twenty years Dan held a gauntlet of IT titles from Help Desk, Exam Reviewer for Certiport (Microsoft), Adjunct Professor, IT Manager, Trainer, Training Manager, Regional Director, Support Services Manager, Apps Admin, Systems Admin, Sr. Systems Admin, and IT Director. He has a degree in Computer Information Systems from Brigham Young University and is also an active member of the International Legal Technology Association (ILTA).

In his spare time, Dan enjoys traveling the world with his wife, playing games of any sort with his youngest brother or his three daughters, drawing, painting, playing the piano, creating games for the local comic conventions, editing videos for said games and learning new technologies that help make life easier.
