Heather's practice focuses on patent application preparation and prosecution for filing in the United States. Her practice involves a wide range of intellectual property matters, including the acquisition and enforcement of patent, trademark, copyright, and trade secret rights, computer and multimedia law, and administrative actions before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and the U.S. Copyright Office. She also has extensive experience in legal opinion preparation for complex patent validity, infringement, and enforcement questions about computer, communications, and electronics patents.

Prior to law school, Heather worked for a steel manufacturing company where she designed ranching and rodeo equipment, as well as manufacturing processes. She earned a degree in Mathematics from Brigham Young University. She attended law school in San Diego, where she worked as a patent intern for a leading golf equipment manufacturer and later for a pharmaceutical company.

Heather is an avid gardener and has a 100-year-old apple tree in her yard that produces 100 gallons of cider each year. She's a pop culture aficionado and has attended Comic Con six times. When Heather isn't watching sports, she's probably training for her next marathon or triathlon.
